Q' The structuring key 41a is an item which should be common to each event when the event is to be structured. In Fig. 6, the structuring key 41a is "event object" 31d that corresponds to the event data 7a. This means that, the event related to a car having the same number (that is, the number on the number plate) is to be structured. The condition item name 41 b defines an item to be an order condition for structuring the common event defined by the structuring key 41a. In Fig. 6, the condition item name 41b is "event type" 31b that corresponds to the event data 7a. Each of the order values 41c to 41g represent an order value and these are preset. The ~~micro~~ macro event is defined by the event type having the order set in the order values 41c to 41g.
